

LETTER PLOT IS CHARGED BY HUSTING

UNION WISCONSIN SENATOR
CHARGES EMBARGO CONFER-ENCE WITH CONDUCT-
ING CAMPAIGN.

DEMANDS AN INQUIRY

Resents Insinuations Against President and Sees "Deep-Laid Plot to Poison Minds of American Citizens."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Washington, April 27.—Senator Husting, democrat, from Wisconsin, today charged that the American embargo conference, had conducted a campaign in Wisconsin to induce him to support an embargo resolution against shipment of war munitions to Europe. He submitted a thousand letters from Wisconsin citizens which he said all emanated from the Chicago headquarters of this organization.

Charges "Deep-Laid Plot." Senator Husting said thousands of telegrams denigrating congress charging the president with seeking war with Germany, emanated from the embargo conference. He declared there was a "deep-laid plot to poison the minds of citizens all over the country with the thought that the president wants war, when every fact gives the lie to such an assertion."

The senator submitted to the senate a letter, signed by the American embargo conference, R. McDonald, secretary, sent to citizens of the Wisconsin enclosing forms of other letters to be sent to him urging support of an embargo resolution.

The thousand letters from Wisconsin citizens, all were identical, he said, and were supplied by embargo conference. The McDonald letter read to the senate: "The embargo conference co-operate in the embargo conference to induce Paul O. Husting to join with the other Wisconsin representatives in supporting an embargo resolution."

"I received all these letters last February, about the time the embargo resolution was made," said the senator. "I thought it was a case making any public statement about it, because it was the general policy not to discuss these matters up in the senate, but in connection with what is going on now because of this telegraphic campaign with respect to the German situation. I think it is quite relevant to call attention to this matter."

"I merely wish to call attention to the fact that all these letters emanated originally from Chicago and not from Wisconsin, that they were sent to my constituents, and represent the sentiment of some conference of bureau clerks, and not the sentiment of citizens of Wisconsin who signed the letters. At least, the form is not written by the letters themselves. It was a deliberate attempt to deceive the senator from Wisconsin into the belief that he was receiving original, personal appeals from the citizens of Wisconsin. Senator Husting described the telegrams which he said came in eight distinct forms. An error in one which spoke of the nation being "participated" into war, which was obviously a mistake, was pointed out by the senator. He especially attached one form which declared the sender heard with alarm "rumors that the country was on the verge of war."

"The crux and cunning of this telegram is that it was framed weeks ahead of any crisis," he said, "and the bitter insinuation is spread that this government is seeking to plunge the country into war, when in actual fact, the forms lay for weeks in office of propagandists waiting for an opportune time."

"I believe there is the evidence of a plot which could plunge us into war and against those who in the name of the price of peace, must by these methods, bring us back into the conflict. For a whole year, when congress was not in session, the president kept us out of war, and I resent the insinuations in these telegrams that the president of the United States and cabinet had any idea, except to preserve peace if it can be done with honor to the nation."

Here we find a deep laid plot to poison the minds of our citizens all over the country with the thought that the president wants war, when every fact gives the lie to that assertion. This is all being done by this mysterious, and I believe, paid for from this same organization."

Urges Congressional Inquiry. Senator Husting urged a congressional inquiry to determine who is responsible for the propaganda.

"I want to know," the senator continued, "what is paying for a couple of hundred thousand telegrams?" Senator Thompson of Kansas interrupted to say that today he received sixty-seven telegrams, 19 from form No. 1; 16 of No. 2; 9 of No. 3; 21 of No. 4; and three of No. 5. "I think the government should follow these messages to their poisonous source," continued Senator Husting. "It must be plain to every one that if this continues for a year or so, and if these insinuations continue, there can be no other end."

"I hope I may never have to vote for a declaration of war. It is only a question of how we are going to keep peace. Are we going to have peace by letting a business of this kind continue unrebuked and unpunished?"

Works Rebukes Husting. Senator Works, republican, said he had received many telegrams from California, but he felt the subject should be left to the president. He asserted the situation was "extremely delicate and solemn." "Consequently, I am astonished that such a senator should make such a speech as we have listened to, and I believe the senator might well be admonished to silence."

MISSISSIPPI FLOODS SURROUND ONALASKA

CITY NEAR LA CROSSE PRACTI-CALLY MAROONED AS RESULT OF HIGH WATER.

TRAFFIC IS CRIPPLED

Northwestern Tracks Nearly Covered and Danger From Weakened Embankments Is Perilous.

La Crosse, Wis., April 27.—Onalaska, a city of 1,500 people, four miles north of La Crosse, is completely isolated from the outside world today except through a late mile long train which is still able to creep slowly into the town. All the wagon roads out of Onalaska were overflowed last night, and a foot deep over the water until it ran a cut off street car communications with La Crosse today. Any hour the Northwestern may be obliged to stop sending water or the great danger from the undermining of its tracks by high water of weeks, with the result that Onalaska will be cut off from the world altogether.

River Still Rising. The Mississippi river at La Crosse today stood at 33.5 feet, and before tomorrow, it is announced that it will pass the high stage of 1897, and ranks next to the great flood of 1888 when the stage was 44.5. It is hardly expected that this stage will be reached this year unless there are further heavy rains.

For five miles between Marshland and Winona the Northwestern railway is running today through a sea which is fifteen feet deep on each side of the tracks. Now the water is splashing over the rails, and as it is beating furiously against the embankment the running of trains through this section is dangerous. From Onalaska north to East Winona on each side of the river, the embankments of the Burlington and Northwestern railroads are almost the only unsubmerged spots to be found.

Three feet of water stands today on the C. M. & St. P. tracks on the levee, and the manufacturing district below that point is cut off.

An appeal for relief for six families of farmers on Goose Island, which is eight miles south of La Crosse and the water has risen so high there is danger the farm buildings will be carried off.

Flood Stage at Winona. Winona, Minn., April 27.—The Mississippi river at this point is still rising, but more slowly. At ten this morning it registered 16.2 feet, which is very slightly under the record made in 1880. The rise since yesterday has resulted in several families leaving their homes.

At a large stock farm on the Wisconsin side of the river at this point, it has been necessary to tie farm buildings to trees to prevent them from floating away. One house in Winona was swung around on its foundation this morning.

KAISER AND GERARD TO HOLD CONFERENCE

American Ambassador Leaves Berlin
For Army Headquarters to Discuss Submarine Situation.

Berlin, April 27.—James W. Gerard, American ambassador to Germany, will leave Berlin tonight for German army headquarters, where he will be received by the German emperor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German imperial chancellor, who up to the present has been at army headquarters, is expected to come to Berlin tomorrow to prepare Germany's answer to the latest American note.

Cunning in Telegrams. "The crux and cunning of this telegram is that it was framed weeks ahead of any crisis," he said, "and the bitter insinuation is spread that this government is seeking to plunge the country into war, when in actual fact, the forms lay for weeks in office of propagandists waiting for an opportune time."

Great Britain contends the men were engaged in intrigues and plots against the British government, and having been discovered, were being taken to Manila where they intended to continue their efforts which would have embarrassed the neutrality of the United States.

CONFRONT RAILROADS WITH REBATE CHARGE

BROTHERHOODS ISSUE STATE-MENT CALLING ATTENTION TO CONTINUANCE OF EVIL.

MIGHT SAVE MILLIONS

Discontinuance of Practice Would Furnish Revenue Sufficient to Grant
Eight Hour Day Demand of Employees.

Cleveland, April 27.—In a statement today by the railroad transportation brotherhoods campaigning jointly to secure an eight-hour day from railroads of the country, attention is directed to the "practice of railroads in granting rebates to shippers and hauling private cars."

The statement says in part: "If the railroads are really sincere in desiring to conserve their revenue, a recent report of the interstate commerce commission shows them how they would save millions of dollars which they lose through the practice of hauling private cars and granting rebates."

This is important in connection with highly exaggerated statements which the railroads are handing out to the cost to the carriers of the adoption of the eight hour work day and freight train service.

It is commonly supposed the practice of rebating has been brought to an end, but the record of fines imposed upon the railroads shows that this unlawful practice has not yet been stopped. Not only do the railroads lose revenue by granting rebates, but the fines that are imposed by the courts when rebates are detected are very considerable. It is reasonable to suppose that only a small percentage of the actual rebates is discovered by the authorities. In 1915 the fines imposed upon the carriers amounted to $264,000.

Tables prepared by the commission show that the revenue from private cars handled free during the year 1915 on only eighty-eight roads, would at tariff rates have been $644,250.79."

According to this report the crew of the man of war was sent to India to conceal news of the affair, and Great Britain promised to pay damages.

FORMER GOVERNOR SEEKS SENATORSHIP

During discussion of the nation's foreign policies and the question of preparedness, Mr. Jeffris was followed with intense interest.

We had a Lincoln, a Grant, a Garfield, a McKinley, a Roosevelt, or a Taft we would not be in our present predicament," said he. "None of us want war; we, as a nation avoid war if such a course can be pursued with national honor. He criticized the foreign and Mexican policy of President Wilson as "shifting and shameful," a policy which has injured America's standing among the nations of the world. Instead of avoiding war, said he, we are rushing into it because the president has lacked firmness and force in his dealings with other nations. In a crisis like this, he contended, America needs the cool, intelligent, conservative judgment of business men. It is no time for politicians and politics. "Should we prepare for war?" "It stands in hand," said Mr. Jeffris, "to keep this country out of war with honor, but if war must come our country, the richest in the world, ought to be prepared to make a successful issue of it. The best way to prevent war is to be prepared for war, and let us be prepared under an administration that knows how."

The candidate appealed to all Americans to be true Americans.

"Any man," said he, "whose vote is influenced by bias or prejudice repudiates his Americanism." The speaker urged that the United States should keep out of war, but at the same time the country must stand for its rights and treat belligerents with equality. He charged that Germany and England have violated the rules of international law and our lack of firmness has incurred that enmity of nations and (Continued on page 9)

HARMONY TALKS BY THE SPEAKERS

JEFFRIS NOMINATION WILL MEAN
A REUNITED REPUBLICAN PARTY.

WHITEHEAD'S ADDRESS

To the Delegates Had Telling Effect—
Phillips Also Gave Brief Speech.

Madison, April 27.—The republican convention of a hundred and ten have met, transacted the business they were called upon to enact, nominated M. G. Jeffris as a candidate for the United States senate at the coming September primaries, and have adjourned and the delegates gone to their homes.

It was a great big harmonious gathering. With a committee of delegates of a hundred and ten, ten from each of the eleven congressional districts, on the roll of a hundred and ten answered their names when the secretary called the names, a most remarkable showing.

While there was a spirited contest for the selection of a speaker, it was perfectly harmonious. Rock county was represented by two candidates, Hon. John M. Whitehead and Malcolm G. Jeffris. Mr. Jeffris won and Mr. Whitehead lost, but the strong defeat was taken away by the wonderful reception he was given when called upon to address the convention.

Mr. Whitehead proved himself to be the big broad-minded man, his friends claimed for him, and his tribute to the successful candidate, which appears elsewhere, was most timely and effective in cementing the support of all present for Mr. Jeffris.

After the preliminary addresses by Mr. West and State Senator Fairchild, the temporary chairman, the reading of the roll, the business of the convention, that of placing in nomination a candidate for the United States senate, was taken up. Claude Bird of Wausau made a motion that that an informal ballot be taken, which was unanimously passed. It cut off many a flight of oratory carefully prepared by the friends of the various candidates and resulted in a harmonious selection of the candidate on the first formal ballot.

The informal ballot was as follows: M. G. Jeffris, 49; John M. Whitehead, 1; George W. Phillips, 1; Francis E. McGovern, 2; George W. Hudnell, 1; James Monahan, 2; S. A. Cook, 2; Frank Bentley, 2.

Then followed the formal ballot, which was the elimination of all but Mr. Jeffris. Whitehead and one vote for McGovern. Mr. Jeffris being named as the choice of the convention, his total vote being 65.

Which was called and McGovern, A. B. Matheson immediately moved to make the selection unanimous, which was carried.

Mr. Jeffris' acceptance was an earnest plea to return the republican party to power in national affairs. He felt, he said, that the republicans were in a position to do this, and that he believed he had been named to make the run for senator because the delegates understood that this is a man who will speak out. "This is the first time I have spoken," Mr. Jeffris said, "I have ever appeared before a convention to accept a nomination. I never have filled a public office, but I have been seeking this nomination, but I told my friends that if they decided upon me that I was prepared to make the fight to serve the people, and that is the spirit in which I enter this campaign—the spirit of service."

Will Serve for People. "To me there is but one thing in the office of senator—the honor and credit that come from a creditable public record. If elected, it will be my highest aim to serve the people in a manner that will be an honor to the people, and credit to my country. I also promise you this, I will not make a campaign for re-election. I never have had a machine, in fact, I would not know what to do with one, and if re-elected I would be in a position to be spent in the service, not in making a campaign."

"We have no enemies to punish, and I am here to make an appeal for a reunited republican party. We extend the hand of friendship. La Follette promised war, but he has not welcomed all republicans who believe in republican principles. Senator La Follette is a political privateer, with a thin veneer of republicanism."

Mr. Jeffris then touched on democratic organization as a party. "Democrats are good citizens, but when they get together they seem to develop a political rash and all the incompetence of the party stands out."

He arraigned La Follette for his jumping jack tactics with respect to the tariff and appealed to all republicans to come in and be regulars. "During the discussion of the nation's foreign policies and the question of preparedness, Mr. Jeffris was followed with intense interest."

We had a Lincoln, a Grant, a Garfield, a McKinley, a Roosevelt, or a Taft we would not be in our present predicament," said he. "None of us want war; we, as a nation avoid war if such a course can be pursued with national honor. London, April 27.—Martial law has been declared throughout Ireland. Fighting is still going on in the streets of Dublin.

Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons today that the rebels continued to hold important buildings in Dublin and that the street encounters were still in progress. "The premier told the house the Irish situation still presents a serious situation today and that there were indications of a spread of the movement to other parts of the Ireland, especially in the west."

He announced that Major General Sir John Maxwell, who formerly commanded British forces in Egypt, was leaving this afternoon for Ireland. The general has been given plenary powers under martial law, over the whole country.

Reinforce Troops in Ireland.

The troops in Ireland have been and are being strongly reinforced. Mr. Asquith added that the government was satisfied the force dispatched was adequate to deal with the situation. "The Irish authorities will place themselves at the disposal of Major General Maxwell to carry out his instructions."

The first and paramount duty of the government is to restore order and stamp out rebellion with all possible vigor and promptitude. That we are doing.

Behind them is undoubtedly an obligation which rests upon the government of making a searching investigation into the causes of and reasons for these events. That obligation we fully recognize and intend to discharge.

Sure of a Job.

It was a new kind of a recommendation for a servant, but very effective. The old employer said nothing about her accomplishments as cook, waitress, laundress or chambermaid. What she wrote was:

"She is as strong as a man and twice as brave. Three times while in our employ she captured burglars single handed and held them until the police arrived and saved hundreds of dollars' worth of silver and jewelry."

All the manager of the employment agency had to do when that girl needed a situation was to read that letter out loud, and there ensued a wild scramble among his customers for the strong fisted maid.—Pittsburgh Press.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF CHILD WELFARE

FIRST DISTRICT FEDERATION OF CLUB WOMEN HOLD CONVENTION AT DELAVAN.

ADDRESS BY HOOPER

Superintendent of School for Blind
Tells of Educational Problems in Teaching Defectives.

Business like methods, earnest speakers and a thoughtful consideration of some of the pressing questions of the times, were the main characteristics of the fourteenth annual convention of the first district federation which was held on Tuesday and Wednesday at Delavan. In spite of the rainy weather, a large attendance was registered. Janeville, however, had only a small representation, owing partly to the indirect railroad service and somewhat to various personal matters which came up during the week. Beloit had the largest delegation of any outside town and gave especially fine reports.

The meetings on Tuesday were devoted chiefly to the needs of children, and were very timely, coming as they did directly after the special attention given by club women all over the state to "Baby Week." The education and care of defective children was the subject for Tuesday afternoon. E. W. Walker, superintendent of the Delavan state school for the deaf, gave an address on "The Care of the Deaf." It was intensely interesting and gave a new insight on the unique questions constantly coming before the experts on these topics. His remarks were illustrated by a class of remarkable six-year-old children, who had only been under instruction for a few months. They showed remarkable facility in lip reading and in speaking and writing.

The superintendent of the state school for the blind, J. T. Hooper, followed with an address on "The Education and Care of the Blind." Mr. Hooper emphasized the thought that the blind child was much better cared for in the institution among other children of the same limitations, than in the surroundings of the best of homes, and with the most intelligent and loving care, as in the latter case the child was so protected and pampered that his best faculties were dwarfed and his independence destroyed. What the speaker most earnestly desired, was that the blind children of the state be sought for and placed in the schools, that they might be given an education and taught to be helpful and self-supporting and then be given a chance in a community to be employed in the various occupations for which they were trained. The difference between the needs of the deaf child and those who are blind was also shown and some of the ever-widening problems were mentioned.

The evening program was a relief from the consideration of the problems of the defectives in that it took up the normal child. The address of Dr. Lester C. Randolph of Milton on "The American Juvenile" was as refreshing as it was common. Dr. Randolph has not only boys of his own, but evidently remembers when he was a boy himself and takes the standpoint of the honest, wide awake and up-to-date boy. The whole ten days program was marked by an earnestness of purpose that was quite remarkable and called for repeated commendations from the audience who were present. They expressed themselves as much encouraged at the interest and co-operation shown by the women and the spirit manifested toward these special problems of the state.

Those present from Janesville were Mrs. E. F. Woods, Mesdames Pembor, Nuzum, Fisher, Helms and Miss Peterson. Mr. Hooper gave one of the addresses and Miss Turner of the Blind School was in charge of an exhibit of rugs, basket weaving, knitting and other work showing the general and special drawings of the pupils in various occupations.

DEFENDANTS WINNERS IN LAND DEAL SUIT

W. L. Finley Loses Case Brought to Obtain Commission Alleged Due in Farm Transaction.

W. L. Finley, who brought suit for judgment against John Schultz and William Finley, former owners of a farm between Fort Atkinson and Jefferson, lost the verdict of the jury after a trial before a jury of six men, at the municipal court yesterday afternoon. Interesting testimony was taken regarding a real estate deal and the fact that this action is but a forerunner to one in which the defendants are suing Mrs. Selk will be plaintiffs for the recovery of their farm, alleging misrepresentation and possibly fraud.

Finley in the complaint alleged that the two defendants owed him $410.40 for commission on the sale of the farm. Finley alleged that Schultz and Mrs. Selk employed him to procure a purchaser for their farm, and he did so, the farm being sold to L. K. Crissey of this city. The answer to the complaint denied the allegations and the testimony taken from the witnesses brought out facts which may become important in the threatened suit in the future. It seems that Crissey purchased the farm, subject to mortgage deals with an exchange provision for two tracts of land in North Dakota.

The jury, Charles Schumaker, George Keeter, Willet Decker, Charles Graves, William Alderman and D. Williams. The attorneys in the case were J. T. Cunningham for the defense and Louis Avery for the plaintiff. In the arguments severe accusations were made over the alleged "shady" deal.

STEALING MACHINES FOR WILD JOY RIDES

Police Locate Two Autos, One Stolen Here and the Other From Beloit, Last Night.

Stealing flivvers is almost getting to be a popular diversion. Last night the Janesville police department figured in the recovery of two stolen Ford cars in this city and the other from Beloit. In both cases it is thought the cars were taken by youthful vandals who desired to have an automobile for a wild joy ride, and not for the purpose of criminal gain through the sale of the stolen car.

Chief of Sikes of Washington street left his machine in front of the Taylor grocery store a few minutes after eight o'clock last night. At nine-thirty when he returned to the place where he had left the car, it was gone. Many people passed this spot during the time, but the police have been unable to find anyone who remembers seeing the car drive away in the night. Late last night the car was found on High street, and it had evidently been used roughly on country roads. If Sherlock Holmes were put on the case he might find that the dirt with which the car was splattered is the same as that in the town of Rock. At least there is one version that the car was stolen to afford transportation for a party to South Janesville.

One tire was punctured and the fan belt broke. The thieves had discarded the car when this damage had been done to the machine. The other car was stolen from in front of the Wilson Theatre, at Beloit, about ten o'clock last night. The machine belonged to the city of Beloit. Late at night the patrolman, in response to a call from Beloit, searched and found the machine on River street. They watched the car all night in vain to take the machine. No one made an appearance to drive the car, and it was turned over to a city employee from Beloit this morning.

Believing that these two thefts indicate further trouble with car thieves, the police here are adopting measures of apprehending the joy riders who use somebody else's autos.

JANESVILLE'S FINEST SHOPPING CENTER

INDUSTRIAL SAFETY EXHIBITION PACKS MYERS LAST NIGHT

Over Thousand Crowd Theatre to See Safety First Show.—Audience is Appreciative.

A house packed to the doors greeted Al. Kroes, deputy explanatory lecturer of the Wisconsin industrial commission, and the industrial safety exhibition slides and moving pictures at the Myers Theatre last night in the campaign for safety under the auspices of the Janesville Commercial club and the Janesville Manufacturers' Association. At eight o'clock every seat in the balcony and on the lower floor was occupied.

A prominent manager of one of the large local factories said after the performance, "We could pack the house again if this lecture was given tomorrow night."

J. D. Beck, chairman of the industrial commission, was in the city and attended the lecture. Mr. Beck opened the evening's activities with a short address. He was introduced by J. A. Craig, president of the Commercial club. His discourse traced the movement in Wisconsin towards factory safety and the greater cooperation between employer and employee for conservation of life and limb.

At this time there are few violations of the industrial safety code by manufacturers in the state, he said, and further reduction of accident numbers must be reached through the employees themselves. The manufacturer has done his share, Mr. Beck said, and it now behooves his employees to do theirs.

While the slides and moving pictures used in the exhibition were excellently portrayed, the essential ability of care and procedure at all times in the shop and on the street, and gave to the audience a clear and first-hand realization of the appalling possibilities without this care, the evening would never have proven the success it had without Al. Kroes to deliver the explanatory lecture.

Kroes has a wit and humor all his own and he used it last night to advantage. His explanation of slides showing one-eyed men, men with their limbs and arms and others with terrible injuries received through their own carelessness, horrible in themselves, was full of humor, but not so much so, however, that the evening did not make the right impression on the minds of those in attendance or the purpose of the entertainment lost.

Kroes' explanation of some of the pictures and slides would have done more to arouse the audience's interest than any other picture shown, but throughout held the attention of his audience and sent them away convinced that their evening was well spent and that no two-dollar musical comedy of recent years had given them so many laughs per minute.

Following Mr. Beck's address a series of slides showing child laborers in southern states were shown on the screen to contrast with the almost utter exclusion of young workers in Wisconsin. Bakery sanitation was covered next. Pictures showing the advantages and the disadvantages of the use and non-use, respectively, of goggles for workmen followed. Factory sanitation, ventilation and light came next.

Several thousand feet of moving pictures on safety first were interspersed with the slides. The films showed their points of interest and interweaving of short love stories, but not any more so than through the explanation of Kroes himself.

It is safe to assume that if the Commercial club and body manufacturing plants arrange to have the entertainment again the theatre would be crowded even greater than was the case last night.

RATS AND MATCHES CAUSE HEAVY LOSS IN MINNESOTA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—The fire loss in Minnesota in 1915 was $4,792,925, according to the annual report of Robert W. Hargadine, state fire marshal. Practically half of the fires were of unknown origin. The loss from 640 fires, the origin of which is unknown, totaled $2,319,602, the report states.

The rat-and-match combination caused losses of $24,935, and more than one hundred fires were due to carelessness of smokers of cigars and cigarettes. Children playing with matches caused eighty-five fires, and defective fuses were responsible for losses of $164,180.

The report carries the recommendation that the laws be so amended that the state fire marshal will be empowered to more rigidly regulate picture shows, to prohibit the use of buildings in which occupancy is hazardous and to provide a state building code.

The American note of protest and warning was merely intended to gull the American public, and did not mean what it said. It was a patriotic act he took the steel out of every future American protest. He proved a true prophet, because he made his own prophecy possible; and the Germans, with cynical contempt, did the rest.

"It is almost inconceivable that the slightest weight will be attached by the administration to Mr. Bryan's activities. He would cringe and fawn, prevaricate and betray, to secure his nomination for the presidency. His soul never rises above the politician's bargain. He does not see that it is monstrous to regard innocent American lives as a chattel for barter. There is no national principle too sacred for him to dicker, because he has no principles of his own.

"The die is set. The president must stand fast, and every true American will stand behind him."

THE REPORTER.

Some people look at the position of a newspaper reporter as a lowly one. Many plays satirize reporters as intrusive, aggressive, and rather of fensive persons. There are people who feel that a young man of culture and education lowers himself by chasing news.

This feeling formerly existed more than now. The newspaper profession has so many gifted men nowadays, so many of them college trained, that the dignity of the work is obvious. A suggestion of the service offered by experience in this function, is offered by the career of Richard Harding Davis, who has just died.

Davis, one of the most popular story writers of the present time, began with the plain, every day work of reporting news and accidents, just like any other cub. It developed and trained his powers, and gave him his chance to display his gift. A surprising number of men prominent in business and public life started in as reporters.

Many young men who are not clear what they want to do in life, begin life, begin work in this position. Even if they quit after a few years, the expression of thought, accurate description, and precise statement, they become very observant, and see the significant details where others gain only vague impressions.

Many are the men who have graduated from this school to the ranks of literature. Their reportorial experience gave them the gift of vivid description without which no writer gets very far. Some young men entertain the indolent wish that they could attain the higher positions in the newspaper world, without going through the mill of a reporter's experience. It is like wanting to go to college without going to school. One must be able to report a fire accurately before he can discuss the war in Europe.

Those Mexicans who poison wells used by Americans are dirty barbarians, but in this country the citizens who dig wells near sources of contamination may be leading citizens.

City people are now preparing to leave comfortable homes for summer cottages where they will be twenty-five miles from a plumber when the drainage system gets stopped up.

There is a considerable number of people who would rather go down to Mexico and be killed by bandits, than make eight per cent on their money in the good old United States.

It is said that an increasing number of girls of high school age are using cosmetics. They are firmly resolved to be fashionable, even if it does spoil their good looks.

The fact that other prices have gone up, leaving the consumer less able to pay, is considered a logical and sufficient reason for advancing the price of any article.

Spontaneous outpourings of popular enthusiasm can't be expected for any candidate, until the usual teams of paid workers have been sent around the district.

It is not believed that gasoline will go any higher unless the government proceeds to remedy the situation by prosecuting and dissolving the producers.

It is annoying when motorists get dust from the machine just ahead, but they are compensated therefor by throwing it on the one coming along behind.

It is evident about now that many of our female friends consider that a display of human skin and bones is beautiful and interesting.

The preparations for the graduations do not seem to consist so much of writing essays as taking fittings at the dressmaker's.

The general reduction of hours of labor gives the men more time at home to direct their wives how to do the housework.

On the Spur of the Moment
ROY K. MOULTON

The Weather.
We're sorry, Mr. Weather Man, but we must make a kick.
We're surely growing weary of the dope.
You're handing us in bunches, and before our state of mind is beyond hope.
We are much obliged to start out in the morning with a bunch of clouds that would stock a city store.
Providing that we take the morning paper's daily bunch.
About your weather prophecies galore.

We take a cravenette along, and even a diving suit;
A linen duster and a palm leaf fan;
A heavy winter overcoat and seal-skin cap to boot;
A parasol to keep away the sun;
A pair of woolen leggings and a Panama chapeau;
And seven suits of varied underwear.

Whenever we brave the elements and set about to go,
And make a friendly visit anywhere,
Whenever we read your bulletins we all bemoan our fate.

It certainly upsets a fellow's brains to figure out the mixture that you mean when you state,
"The weather will be fair, unless it rains."
You add it will be warmer some, but colder yet in spots,
And every last prediction reads the same.
In the ward of the incurables we'll all be havin' cots,
Unless you promise to cut out the game.

A New American Citizen.
Tuesday about 6 o'clock in the morning, just as all nature was awakening, the stork in all its majesty flew over our peaceful hamlet and left at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Avery a little son, who tipped the scales at seven pounds. He was immediately made to feel at home and at once decided to remain. As yet no name has been found that has the quite good enough sound to it. Frank is all smiles, Charles and Miss Isadore adore him, the mother is coming first and this is now a happy little family.—Paw Paw True Northerner.

The Scientists.
Prof. Amariah Tibbs was all unknown to fame. Until one day he set about to make himself a name. He got out his old telescope and aimed it at the stars. And much to his surprise he found a brand new war on Mars. No one had seen the thing before, it was a famous find. The whole world paid its tribute to his scientific mind. Prof. Tibbs' discovery created such a stir. A lecture bureau signed him at one hundred dollars per.

Prof. James Terrivillinger long occupied a chair. The one-horse college salary gave him no cash to spare. The future seemed quite hopeless to the scientist until. One day he found some microbes on an old one-dollar bill. Of course the papers got the news and spread it far and wide. And much learned comment editorial, beside.

He trained a troupe of these microbes and put them on the stage. And in high-browed vaudeville he is the current rage.

Prof. Alexander Butts knew not the spotlight's glare. He sometimes stumped the faculty, but not his humble chair. One day he wrote a treatise on "What Modern Dramas Mean." A circus was the only show that he had ever seen.

The "Modern Drama" stuff went great and he was in demand. He spoke before the women's clubs throughout the entire land. He's quoted as authority and worshipped from afar. And when he travels now it's in a handsome private car.

He was stooping over the Ford crank when it kicked back and hit him in the eye, placing the optic in deep mourning. That was the truth of it, but these are some of the things he heard from his friends when he walked his office next day.

"Been having a fight? What's the lady name?"
"Your wife can throw a rolling pin pretty straight, can't she?"
"You ought to get on the water wagon. Look at me. I haven't had a black eye in nine years."

"Oh, yes, I've heard that automobile crank story before. I guess you ran into a tree, if the truth were known."

"That story will do to tell women and children, but don't hand it to me, old scout."

"Wear glasses and then they won't dare hit you in the eye. It's a penitentiary offense."

"It seems as though when you will fall up stairs you could manage to hit some other portion of your anatomy than your eye, but there is no accounting for tastes."

"What was the bartender sore at you about? Couldn't you leave the place at shutting-up time without being thrown out?"

Clean wiping rags free from buttons and hooks bring 35c lb. at the Gazette office.

TRYING TO SETTLE STRIKE IN ALASKA

Hewel Davies of Kentucky, strike pacifist, is now in Alaska seeking to end the strike in progress on the government railroad which is now being built. Davies has an enviable record as a strike-settler, for he had the men in the Ohio coal fields working within a month after tackling the job, and the Colorado strike was not settled until he took a hand under the direction of the United States government.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS
INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

CROW BLACKBIRD
(Orola quiscal)

Length, twelve inches. Shorter by at least three inches than the other grackles with trough-shaped tails. Black, with purplish, bluish, and bronze reflections.

Range: Breeds throughout the United States west to Texas, Colorado, and Montana, and in southern Canada; winters in the southern half of the breeding range.

Habits and economic status: This blackbird is a beautiful species, and is well known from its habit of congregating in city parks and nesting there year after year. Like other species which habitually assemble in great flocks, it is capable of inflicting much damage on any crop it attacks, and where it is harmful a judicious reduction of numbers is probably sound policy.

It shares with the crow and blue jay the evil habit of pilaging the nests of small birds of eggs and young. Nevertheless it does much good by destroying insect pests, especially white grubs, weevils, grasshoppers, and caterpillars. Among the caterpillars are army worms and other cutworms. When blackbirds gather in large flocks, as in the Mississippi valley, they may greatly damage grain, either when first sown or when in the milk. In winter they subsist mostly on weed seed and waste grain.

Word From Headquarters.
"When, where and how will the war end?" "I don't know," replied the landlord of the Putnia tavern. "However, the young ladies and gents of the senior class of the village academy, several of whom are over sixteen years of age and have been outside of the county a time or two, are going to settle the entire question in a debate to-night. I understand, too, that while they are at it they will fix things so there will never be any more wars. So I shall be able to inform you in full tomorrow morning."

Allen Louis Benson.

Allen Louis Benson, author and newspaper man, has been nominated for president by the Socialists. An important plank in his platform is opposition to preparedness. On this subject his views are in exact accord with those of Henry Ford.

Why You Should Consider a Refrigerator One of The First Necessities

Potomine poisoning is ten times more prevalent in summer than in winter. Why? Because foodstuffs become tainted and poisoned through decay from lack of refrigeration. Some people think that Potomine poisoning comes from eating canned goods. Not more due to neglect of refrigeration of things we eat. You cannot perhaps make yourself 100 per cent proof against this insidious disease, but you can eliminate 95 per cent of the chance by taking care of your spoilable foodstuffs in a CLEAN, WHOLESOME REFRIGERATOR.

Potomine poisoning is only one of the many deadly diseases attributable to the lack of the uses of a refrigerator. Typhoid fever is in many cases attributable to the lack of care taken of food supplies in their protection against contamination from germs left from contact from d stuffs become tainted and poisoned files.

You can protect your food from the germ-spreading pest—

Special Sale Tomorrow and Saturday of the Famous Wirthmor Waists at $1.00

Not the envelope, but what the envelope contains is what accounts for the wonderful successful sale of Wirthmor Waists everywhere.

These four new charming styles in Wirthmor Waists go on sale tomorrow and Saturday. As always they're just $1.00 and as always they're exclusive models, and could not be bought elsewhere at any price.

It's true that Wirthmor Waists are and have been from their very inception years ago, packed in sanitary transparent envelopes. It's not, however, the method of packing that's responsible for their wonderful successful sale, but the extreme desirability of the Waists themselves. Wirthmor Waists are always neat, simple, refined in style, and so made as to insure lasting satisfaction. That's why they sell so well, and that's why every woman who buys them once will buy them again and again. No other Waist of the same or somewhat higher prices compare with the Wirthmor in value.

UNLESS THE ENVELOPE IS STAMPED WIRTHMOR, THE WAIST THE ENVELOPE CONTAINS IS NOT A WIRTHMOR. AND REMEMBER THIS, THAT WIRTHMOR WAISTS IN THIS CITY ARE SOLD IN JUST THIS ONE STORE.

PLANS FOR $85,000 HIGH SCHOOL ANNEX PUT BEFORE COUNCIL

SCHOOL BOARD SUBMITS PROPOSITION WITH TENTATIVE PLANS AT JOINT CONFERENCE.

NEED IS IMPERATIVE

Rapid Growth in Attendance and New Demands of Different Departments Makes Addition Necessary.

Initial proposals were presented to the common council by the school board at a meeting held at the school office last evening, for an addition to the high school building that will cost $85,000, to be appropriated through the issue of bonds. No definite action was taken at the meeting since it was held merely to consider suggestions as to plans and location.

Plans and appropriate specifications for the new addition had been prepared for the council members' approval or disapproval of the project, reserving their decision until a future meeting of the council when the school board has furnished exact figures on how much the improvement will cost. The new building would cost fifty thousand dollars, and the heating plant, separate from either building, from eleven to twelve thousand; and equipment from three to four thousand.

Location Undecided. There are at least three feasible plans for the location of the proposed addition. There is ample property of four lots now owned by citizens. The assessed value of the entire block, where the school stands, is $11,500. Three lots would be necessary for the addition and the assessed value of this private property is $6,700.

It is also being seriously considered to erect the Lincoln school, across the street from the high school, and combine the grade school and new addition. Plans have been drawn for a building connecting the two, and if this method is followed out, it would eliminate the need of purchasing new property. The third plan, which is not favored to any great extent, is for the location of a distinctly separate building on some other property, possibly across the river on the east side. The plan for the new building is not favored to any great extent, is for the location of a distinctly separate building on some other property, possibly across the river on the east side.

Building Plans. The plans as prepared by W. H. Blair, architect, for a four-story addition to be built west of the present building. The first floor would consist of an auditorium, with two class rooms. The second floor would be used as the main gymnasium, and the auditorium in the old building has been declared unsafe by the fire authorities, and this year will not be used for the fire hazard. The new first floor would also have two class rooms, a balcony over the auditorium. The third floor would be connected with the present building by a bridge. This floor, according to the plan, is for the freshmen assembly room, two recitation rooms and a good sized library. The top floor is planned for a very complete and modern department in domestic science.

Urgent Needs. H. C. Buell, superintendent of schools, addressed the meeting, outlining the needs for the addition. The high school attendance is now five hundred, but the original assembly room was designed for 200 pupils. This means that 150 pupils have been crowded into the school, necessitating doubling the rows of seats, giving two rows for one aisle in nearly half of the room.

The new addition would easily take care of 250 pupils as the freshmen assembly room is planned for the second floor from the ground. This would also improve the present auditorium, a possible means of enlargement in the distant future, as the school board fully realize that money spent now in enlarging means a saving in the future.

In four cases, at the present time, two teachers are using the same recitation rooms for a portion of the day. This interferes with efficient work and is costly, since the teachers are unable to prepare the material for use for their classes. Three or four recitation rooms are planned in the annex. The manual training rooms are overcrowded, new shops being needed not only to care for the increase but also to improve the present equipment. The school board decides to adopt the proposal to build west of the school, manual training rooms will be built in the space separating the buildings, in such a manner that the roof will be a few feet above the ground with glass roofing to afford a sufficient amount of light.

New Auditorium. With the new emphasis that has been placed by the state fire officials concerning fire regulations, the auditorium should be placed on the first floor. The board has practically abandoned the use of the present auditorium on the second floor where it is required under modern designs for a safe school building.

The present commercial rooms on the third floor should be rendered safe in such a manner that the new annex if built west of the school, will contain a passage way from the old building, affording an excellent exit. If a new addition is built near the old building, one principle can supervise both buildings as a unit, saving time, expenses, and giving more efficiency in school administration and operation. This system would also avoid duplication of apparatus and equipment.

A new plan is planned that will cost around twenty thousand dollars. If the property west of the school is purchased it will be placed between the two buildings, and if this plan is not followed, the building will be placed on a building outside of the proposed annex.

The need of a modern, and well equipped library was emphasized by Superintendent Buell, as the state now demands that every school have a fairly equipped reference and library department. It was reported that 115 students now attend the Janesville high form out of the city, contributing a dollar a week as required by the statutes. The increase in the number of students is not noticeable but, according to Superintendent Buell, in two years time the addition will be urgently needed as the seventh grades now in the public schools, will be taking the commercial course, and more girls taking the domestic science studies, which will mean a larger and better equipped department for these two courses.

Two gymnasiums will be needed. Mr. Buell said: The increase in physical training has been amazing at the Janesville high and the demand placed on the school is increasing. The school is now crowded with the pupils in the gymnasium. During the past four or five years, the classes in gymnasium work have increased, and the importance of this training cannot be appreciated too much, with the proper instruction.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO AID IN CLEAN CITY ACTIVITIES

Teachers to Outline Plans of Cleanup to Pupils This Week.—Statement of Physicians.

Teachers in the graded schools in this city will be enlisted in the campaign for cleaning up the city of Janesville, on May 1st to 3rd, and the services of every juvenile from the kindergarten to the eighth grade is being enlisted in the campaign for a clean city. Dr. S. S. Buckmaster, who is supervising the cleanup work for the city, it is also hoped that the high school students can be interested in the campaign for a clean city, and the greatest services that can be rendered by them to the city is a little work at their respective homes on the days of the cleanup.

By stimulating an interest among the students and pupils of the public schools the officials hope to accomplish a great deal. Also by instilling the needs of a clean city in the future generation now a task would be accomplished which would show future results. Janitors at the schools, it is hoped, will take the campaign to heart and improve the schools and school grounds during the summer. Each teacher in this city will be requested to make proper announcements before the classes during the week, and outline the cleanup work in short talks.

Also in the business district were inspected by Dr. Buckmaster, the morning and places in these alleys were nothing short of disgraceful. The cleaning of the alleys is a big problem for it is the relation of the owner and tenant and the placing of responsibility for violations. Municipal collection appears to be the only correct remedy for conditions that have started removing ash piles from in the rear of property, but there is a vast improvement to be accomplished beyond this. To a community, health is a valuable asset. It is a physician when asked his opinion regarding the cleanup, "It certainly attracts people and increases the value of the land, and the cure for it is not only to prevent it, but in a larger sense prevents them. Each case of disease in this city threatens the welfare of every other citizen. Conditions from filth in the city are spread the acute infectious diseases. So it comes down to a fact that the safety of every citizen depends upon the general health of the community. To afford municipal health, every citizen should keep his premises clean, should see to it that garbage collections or refuse in which flies may breed. And this man's neighbor is effected in a similar manner in any work that may or may not be done," continued the doctor.

Another physician, also a surgeon, has the following to say regarding the cleanup: "Such activities are a decided factor in public health. One cannot fully appreciate the great danger from the fly until one is impressed by the number of disease cases that they cause. Disease evils are best checked through cleanliness and cleanliness means the elimination of fly breeding and the doing away of the sources of disease. Proper work during the cleanup week will do a great deal for the city. It is generally believed it takes the place of the fly-swallowing activities. There will be fewer flies to 'swat' if they are not given the opportunity of breeding in the refuse piles and the cleaning up the work of millions of 'swats' is accomplished with less effort and expense."

The Competent Handling of Smaller Estates

Small estates, quite as well as large ones, need trust company service. They often need it more; losses are of relatively more importance and there is less access to competent assistance. Naming as executor or trustee a relative or friend of the family, with nothing to recommend him but social or family connection, is a grave risk. Few men are competent; and no man is certain. He may die or move away. Rock County Savings and Trust company service is competent and dependable; and the fee is moderate.

Nerves go to and from all parts of the body. When there is an abnormal condition of any nerve or set of nerves there is a corresponding abnormal condition of the parts supplied by such nerves.

It may be the nerve becomes involved first and the parts supplied by it second; or it may be directly the opposite.

A cure is effected quickest when all the parts involved receive the proper material for repair. Such material is supplied both in sufficient quantity and quality when taking the Milk and Rest Treatment.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME...

Copyright 1915 by Frank H. Spearman.

"I'm not so sure of that. But I do know it has been the hardest two weeks' work I have ever done in my life to keep away from you." He looked at her keenly. Her eyes fell under his gaze. "I think you realize, Helen," he went on, speaking rapidly and not always connectedly, "how I've felt toward you for a long, long time. The trouble has been, I've never felt in a position to speak until now. You know I love you. I think you understand why I've held my peace—I had nothing, it seemed to me, to offer you. But Mr. Rhinelander has put me in a position where I need no longer be afraid or obliged to keep silence. I want to ask you, Helen, to be my wife."

She could not speak. It seemed to both that though they had long anticipated the moment, they could not have anticipated the happiness now upon them. He drew her, unresisting, into his arms and placed upon her finger his engagement ring. "This isn't the conventional way of doing it, Helen, but this ring has been waiting for two long weeks for its place on your finger."

They wandered some distance from the house. But unfortunately for their tete-a-tete the guests were arriving. Rhinelander, meeting these as well as he could, was compelled to dispatch Spike on a search for Helen.

Spike, who had lost none of his aptitude for situations, found her with Storm among the oaks, and in spite of Storm's disgusted expression he delivered his imperative message. And, conscience-stricken at having neglected her duties as hostess, Helen hurried away.

Storm, in an exuberance of happiness, watched her go. But another than Spike had seen the happy pair from a distance and watched with envious eyes some of their exchanges of affection—this was Seagru.

Smoking a cigarette, he walked deliberately to where Storm stood gazing after his departing fiancée. The young railroad man, aware of the sneer on Seagru's face, the moment the latter greeted him: "You appear to be becoming very friendly with Miss Holmes," he remarked with a touch of insolence.

Storm fired instantly. "Why shouldn't I?" he demanded with equal assurance. "Rather ambitious," sneered Seagru, "for a discharged locomotive engineer."

"Seagru," exclaimed Storm, his neck swelling in anger, "if you knew what I thought of you, you'd be glad to be a discharged locomotive engineer. So you're jealous, are you? Well, Helen Holmes is going to be my wife, and if you say another word about her or about me," averred Storm, without casting about for fine words, "I'll knock your infernal block off."

Seagru strode toward him in fury. "You impudent rascal! What do you mean by threatening me? Get back to your cab and keep your impertinence to yourself!"

Storm's arm shot out. The next moment the two men were engaged in a pitched battle. Spike, at a distance, saw the mix-up, ran to Helen to warn her of the disturbance and hastened away to separate the pair.

Helen, in her excitement, started after Spike. Rhinelander and others followed. Storm and Seagru were at it hammer and tongs. The men tore them apart. Storm, furious at his enemy but held back by Spike and Rhinelander, launched a terrific abuse at Seagru and did not choose nice words in denouncing him and his conduct. Indeed, his anger was so uncontrollable, and to Helen's mind his lack of restraint before her guests so inexcusable, that she upbraided Storm severely for his intemperate language.

Seagru, dusting his hands with his handkerchief, already had himself under better control. It was his opportunity to take advantage of Storm's natural but extreme indignation, and he made the most of the moment by professing to Helen to excuse Storm's fury, but blaming his bad temper for the disturbance. Storm, himself, cooled down by Spike, now tried to make his apologies to Helen.

But it was too late. Helen would not listen to him, and, turning away with her guests, left Storm with nobody to sympathize with him but Spike.

Reaching the tennis courts, some of the guests took up the play, while others, looking back toward the scene of excitement, saw Helen coming over with Seagru and Rhinelander. Reaching the courts, Helen, instead of stopping, passed on with Seagru. Two men watched them walk away with particular interest. Spike, who seemed deeply concerned with the awkward situation, and George Storm, who now began to feel the full force of Helen's disapprobation.

For an hour she moved among her guests, accompanied a good part of the time by Seagru. To tell the truth, it was not wholly by her own desire. As her indignation cooled she began to consider that her lover had some grounds for his ungovernable outbreak and the exploits in which Seagru had figured in the endeavor to do her and her friends all manner of harm recurred to her memory. She did feel, however, that Storm should have made a further effort to tell her, privately, he was sorry for having so rudely broken in on the festivities of the day and since he did not, she was sufficiently piqued to profess an interest in Seagru she was far from feeling.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Can a moving picture be made that will be funny without at the same time being vulgar? After looking over some of the so called comedies that are being turned out in such large numbers a neutral observer might doubt if this could be done. Some directors seem to think that as long as plenty of pies are thrown, there is nothing further to be desired. Repulsive table manners are played up on the screen, and we are asked to laugh. Some unoffensive old gentleman is knocked down and run over, and they tell us that this is humor. A few persons, however, seen nothing worth laughing at in such scenes. We believe the number is growing, and which is a nauseated public will eventually demand that all comedies be as clean, for instance, as those in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew appear. May the day come quickly.

THEY COULD HAVE CALLED HIM CRIMINAL

Ever since that historic day when Arthur James reached down into his Webster and brought forth the word "eloquent," remarkable words have been applied to actors who play the heavy parts. It remains, however, for the press department to reach the acme of description. This department refers to Stuart Holmes as "the cold, cruel, cunning, crafty, churlish, cloven-footed, caustic, calloused, cackling, curt, coarse, calculating villain."

"MOMENT BEFORE" FOR MISS FREDERICK

Having enjoyed her "wild, bare-footed existence" in "Audrey," Pauline Frederick was enthusiastic when told that she was to play a gypsy in her next production, "The Moment Before," which is based on Israel Zangwill's play of that name. But, remembering the beach netties which she encountered in Jacksonville while there on her last trip, she sighed with relief when informed that her partied lar gypsy was not of the bare-footed variety.

Immediately after finishing "Blissful Isabel" and "Spring Time and Tiltle Tod," Florence Lawrence, the star, resigned. She has announced no reason for leaving.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

"The Great Divide" on Friday. William Vaughan Moody's great American play "The Great Divide," the tremendous story of a real Eastern girl's hatred and eventual love for an untamed rough character of the west, which is well remembered as the play in which Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin starred successfully for many seasons, is the offering at the Beverly for Friday. The play has been produced in five acts by the Lubin company with House Peters and Ethel Clayton in the roles formerly played by Mr. Miller and Miss Anglin.

The photo-play version has been accorded a unanimous praise by motion picture and dramatic critics both for its scenic grandeur and its remarkable dramatic acting. It was produced at the bottom of the Grand Canyon of Arizona at the Midland spot of which Author Moody wrote. Prominent in the "punches" of the picture are the tremendous landslides in which the entire side of a mountain is forced away by a terrific charge of dynamite; the fight for possession of Ruth by Ghent, Pedro and "Dutch" in Ruth's cabin and the wonderful night scenes, which have been taken with the aid of the new Lubin portable automobile lighting outfit.

"The Great Divide" has been produced under the direction of Edgar Lewis, former director of the William Farnum productions, and is from a screen adaptation of the famous story by Anthony P. Kelly, the writer of "The Soul of a Woman." It will be shown at the Beverly theatre on Friday next.

COOP & LENT'S CIRCUS.

While a citizen stood absorbedly studying a poster describing some of the wonders of the Coop and Lent Circus announced to appear in Janesville on Saturday, May 6, he was accosted by a friend who inquired "Ain't you got over the Circus fever yet?" Oh, yes, long ago," laughed the other, but these here pictures is mighty attractive and I was ruminating on taking the grand-children.

It is the old story! The irrepressible wish to see the Circus is rather to the thought of taking the young ones. On many occasions one little one is found sufficient excuse for all the adults in the family taking in the show, particularly when the reports are enthusiastic about the excellence of the exhibition. The numerous interesting oddities in the Museum and the large collection of animals in the Menagerie.

"The Coop & Lent United Shows are among the most important on the road. The performances in the three rings and the entire equipment is reputed to be of the best, by the best that money can secure.

World famous equestrians with Coop & Lent's big combined Circus at Janesville, Saturday, May 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

They have solved the problem of how to put humor in pictures without making them vulgar. The success of their one-reel comedies proves the public really likes refined humor.

The usual two performances will be given and the big street parade will leave the grounds around 10:00 A. M.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

Robert Edeson Tonight in "The Cave Man."

"The Cave Man" which will be presented at the Beverly tonight with Robert Edeson in the title role is a screen drama whose brilliancy, consummate artistry in portrayal and photographic achievement sets a new standard.

It is a five act comedy, drama and tells how a woman brings a man from the status to a high position in society for amusement; how he reverts to his former life and later wins a high position by his own merit and cave man instincts. There are some wonderful scenes and situations that will hold the attention of all.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Ethelyn Gibson, Sticks to Comedy Roles.

Ethelyn Gibson, who is appearing as Charlie Chaplin's sweetheart in "The Charlie Chaplin Revue," which comes to Myers Theatre three days on April 27, 28 and 29, matinee Saturday, differs with the general run of Movie actresses in that she has never played any but comedy parts. Five years in the business, she is now in her 14th year, she was living with her parents in Los Angeles. Charlie Chaplin, at that time was just beginning to achieve fame as a comedian. One day Miss Gibson chanced to be in a park at the time when Chaplin and his associates were making one of their pictures and she was impressed into service as an "Extra" to be "plunged, clothes and all, into a small lake. She presented a sufficiently dignified appearance to satisfy Director Sennett and was soon made a regular member of the company, which at that time numbered Charlie Chaplin, Fred Mace, Ford Sterling, Mabel Normand and others who have since achieved world-wide reputations as funmakers.

When Chaplin went to another Film concern he took Miss Gibson with him and when "The Charlie Chaplin Revue" was sent on the road she was one of the very first persons to be engaged. Miss Gibson says she prefers playing to a real audience rather than in pictures and her work in "The Charlie Chaplin Revue" has been received with favor by critics in Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities where "The Charlie Chaplin Revue" has aroused such a storm of argument concerning his real identity.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Peg O' My Heart."

Oliver Morosco's delightful comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," which will shortly be seen at Myers Theatre Sunday evening, April 30, proves conclusively that theatre-goers will still laugh most heartily and sincerely at humor which is not coarse and risqué. As a breaker of theatrical records "Peg" has no equals. Florence Martin who heads the company that is to be seen here, played the title role for one solid year at the Cort Theatre, Boston, and six months at the Lyric Theatre, Philadelphia. All of which shows that a simple story, directly and simply told, is more potent than any plot dealing with the everlasting triangle, sex problems and the child labor theme.

Scene from "Peg O' My Heart," at Myers Theatre, Sunday, April 30th, featuring Miss Florence Martin as "Peg."

"Peg O' My Heart" is described as a comedy of youth and love, and is from the pen of J. Harlley Manners. Mr. Morosco has given the play a lavish mounting and supplied an excellent cast of players, most of whom supported Miss Martin during her memorable Boston engagement.

The Daily Novelette

The Munitions Plot. A kiss must be distinctly short. Film censors all do so report.

The great detective was playing his violin and smoking a pip. Sad of jimson weed as Petrarch Jones, the munitions manufacturer, rushed in. "I want to investigate this order from Mexico," he cried. "They want a sheet of triple-pli armor plate twenty feet by fifteen. I love my munitions orders, but I love my country more. Villa must be at the bottom of this."

The great detective looked at him long and thoughtfully. "You must be an armor manufacturer," he said at length. "Let me see the letter." Petrarch Jones let him see it. "Ah, just as I thought!" said the great detective. The letter-head reads: "Chilesen and Conchile, Fickersons, Jitneyara, Fickersons, Jitneyara, is Mexican for moving picture parts. The cowboys and bad men there have riddled so many sheets with bullets shooting at the villains and Americans on the films that the proprietors have decided to order a bullet-proof screen."

And the great detective hid a yawn.

FLORENCE ROCKWELL IN PICTURE PLAY

"He Fell in Love With His Wife" Shown at the Apollo. "He Fell in Love With His Wife," a five act Pallas photoplay at the Apollo yesterday, gave Florence Rockwell and Forrest Stanley a wealth of opportunity for their distinctive abilities. The play opens with a strong situation and holds the attention through to the end. Florence Rockwell, as Alda Armstrong, gives a portrayal of charm and sweetness that was winning. Forrest Stanley, as James Holcroft, makes the same good looking hero as ever. There have been better Pallas pictures and most certainly better Paramount pictures than this. The attendance was good.

FORCIBLE PICTURE AT NEW BEVERLY

Ethel Clayton Shown to Good Advantage Yesterday in "Dollars and the Woman." That the people of Janesville can show their appreciation for a new theatre and good music, was evident last night at the new Beverly theatre, when they anxiously waited at the entrance door long before the first show was scheduled to start in hopes of witnessing again a good picture. The second night's program did prove to be especially interesting. "Dollars and the Woman," was the title, and Ethel Clayton in the principal role, gave the picture a delicate touch of realism and beauty as the wife of the carefree inventor. For today Robert Edeson will be seen in "The Cave Man" at the Beverly.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-five years old and a year ago I was engaged to a young man three years my senior. We quarreled and he has not come to see me since. The quarrel was really my fault. His mother was entertaining the daughter of a friend of hers when she happened to pass near this town while on a trip. My fiancé told me that on a certain night he was going to take her to the theater. I said he had no right to do so. Then we began to argue and finally I told him if he did, take her. I broke our engagement. He took her and I sent back my ring and letters and all the presents I had received from him. He wrote and said that he was very sorry the thing had happened, that he had done what he felt was right and if our engagement meant so little to me he thought it just as well if we saw no more of each other. I love him and I can't stop going with me and I feel sure he will not be so rude. (2) The boys call me many nicknames which are not very nice. What can I do to stop them? I never let on that I hear them. (3) What can I do to gain girl friends? I care nothing for boys. (4) I chew my finger nails because they break so easily. What can I do to keep them from breaking? (5) My ankles twist easily. What will help them? (6) Our Sunday school class has a meeting once a month at night at a member's house. Some boys always ask to take me home. I always say "Thank you, I am too young to go with boys." Is that proper or improper? If improper, what should I say? (7) Your hair should be brushed thoroughly every morning and night, and washed every three weeks. To massage it lightly with a tonic will aid in bettering the condition of the scalp. The following is a tonic which many find good: Quinine sulphate, two fluid drams; alcohol, two fluid ounces; glycerine, two fluid ounces; bay rum, two fluid ounces; sixteen fluid ounces. The quinine should be dissolved in the alcoholic liquids, then the other ingredients added, and the whole filtered. Rub the solution into the roots of the hair. After the treatment the hair should be braided loosely. (8) Pay no attention to the names and don't let them hurt your feelings. Almost every one has been called by disagreeable nicknames during some period of his life. When you and the boys grow older they will not be so rude. (9) Be friendly and sympathetic and interest them, and I think you will be well liked. You should be careful of your appearance and manners. (10) Rub your finger nails with vaseline every night. If that does not help, soak them in warm almond oil for about five minutes every night. (11) Remove your foot from the floor, point your toe and move your foot around and around. This exercise strengthens the ankle. (12) It would be all right for a boy to take you home from the Sunday school meeting. The next time he asks you, thank him and say he may take you.

Of Course He Didn't Really Like To Dance With Her.
A woman who is very sensitive about her dancing was telling with pride that a certain man who is reported to be a very fine dancer had danced with her three times in one evening.

The compliment discreditor—this time a relative near enough to have the relative's privilege of disagreeable frankness—brought to her attention the fact that the excellent dancer is also an astute politician, and that, as her husband has considerable political influence, she might attribute the compliment to that.

Pleasant thought!
Of course, the people who constantly go about repeating compliments paid to themselves, perhaps fishing for more by pretending not to believe them, perhaps just fatuously repeating them without even a pretense of disbelief, often deserve to have the bubble of their self-conceit pricked.

But when anyone is so frankly delighted with a compliment that he just has to tell you about it—as in the case of Molly—it's not a particularly gracious act to find some way to discredit it, is it?

Household Hints

SALADS.
Cauliflower.—Soak the cauliflower in salted water an hour; cook in boiling water until tender; drain and chill; then sprinkle with French dressing and set aside for half an hour. Sever the flowerets partly from the stalks, but so as not to change their relative positions, and place on a serving dish; put heart leaves of lettuce between the flowerets and about the base of the vegetable; pour a cup of mayonnaise dressing over the whole and sprinkle with pinches of finely chopped parsley. In serving separate the flowerets with a sharp knife.

Tomato Salad With Horseradish Dressing.—Change the tomatoes, placed in a wire basket into a kettle of hot water; remove at once and rub off the skin; chill thoroughly and cut in halves. Serve on lettuce leaves with a star of cream dressing, season with grated horseradish on top of each slice.

Celery and Nut Salad.—Cut fine tender stalks of celery and English walnuts and mix with French dressing. Garnish the center of the salad and the border with tender leaves of lettuce and bits of curled celery.

Asparagus and Salmon Salad.—Mix cold cooked salmon with mayonnaise, form in a mound and encircle with a wreath of cold cooked asparagus tips dressed with French dressing.

THE TABLE.
Baked Eggs (entirely new)—Mix two tablespoons heavy cream with three tablespoons fine stale bread crumbs and season with one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put half of mixture into buttered baking dish, slip from two to six raw eggs into dish, cover with remaining mixture, bake in moderate oven until eggs are set. Garnish dish with a small sprig of parsley.

"Paddy's Pigs"—Mix two cups finely chopped chicken with one cup mashed potatoes, a little celery salt and pepper and a white sauce made of half cup milk, one teaspoon flour and small piece butter. Stir into this one egg and roll all in very fine cracker crumbs. Shape into croquettes to resemble little roasted pigs, fry in deep fat and sprinkle with grated cheese. Place strips of carrots, a curly piece for a tail, and a round piece for an eye.

Potato "Trifles"—Into a saucepan pour one cup milk, add one tablespoon melted butter and when milk reaches

MRS. ASTOR, GIVING TIME AND MONEY TO WAR RELIEF, MAKES PLEA FOR ENGLAND

Mrs. John Astor.

Mrs. John Astor, of New York, who has given much of her time and money to war relief in England during the last year and a half, believes Americans have been somewhat inarticulate in expressing good-will toward the British people in their fight. She says there is no ill-feeling in England against America, but that the British people believe the two nations should be bound more closely together by the Anglo-Saxon ideal.

Harry's Wife

What is my desk doing over here?" asked Dr. Folsom, coming in to the library where his wife sat reading.

Oh, Bertha wanted her writing table by the window and answered Mrs. Folsom wearily.

"Do you mean she had the nerve to change my place from the place where it has been for years to put hers there?" asked Harry.

"I know it, and I advised against the plan, as you remember, but nothing I could say could turn him from his plan, and you gave your consent. You could have refused, but you didn't," Mrs. Folsom smiled.

"The doctor made a wry face. 'I guess I am not much better than you are,' he said, 'denying Harry anything, but this thing cannot go on. For the sake of the future relations of all of us, they must have a home by themselves in the fall.'"

"I think Harry must see it himself," said Mrs. Folsom, rose and walking over to the window, laid her hand on her husband's shoulder. "I'll do it if you want me to."

The doctor slipped his arm around her waist. "It seems a shame to ask you to do the hardest thing in this situation, but you have a way with you that makes anything you do right. If I did it Harry would have the feeling that I had turned him out of the house. I never can do a thing that requires tact. I haven't a bit of it."

"Anybody that knows you could not take offence at anything you did, for you have such a good heart under your businessness," Mrs. Folsom laid her hand on his shoulder. "However, I will tell Harry the first chance I get to be alone with him. The chances are not numerous," she sighed.

boiling point add one-fourth cup flour that has been thoroughly blended with two tablespoons cold water. Add two well-beaten eggs and stir rapidly three minutes. Into mixture place three boiled potatoes and continue stirring until potatoes are thoroughly mashed. Season with one teaspoon salt, half teaspoon paprika and one teaspoon paprika and one tablespoon minced parsley. Have ready a deep pan of boiling fat. Take up a potato mixture, one tablespoon at a time, drop into hot fat and fry for three minutes. Turn potatoes, occasionally, but lift them gently while doing so in order to prevent the "trifles" breaking.

New Stuffed Tomatoes (will serve six people).—Take six fresh tomatoes, cut a cover over each, scoop out interiors, season shells with salt, pepper and sugar. Remove stalks and thoroughly wash a quart of fresh spinach; place in boiling water, chop up fine and add to mixture. Chop one egg for three minutes, then fill tomato shells with spinach, place covers on, place a very little bit of butter on top of each and bake twenty minutes. Serve on hot dish.

Salad.—Chop one small head cabbage into dice, mix well with one-fourth teaspoon salt and any desired salad dressing. Hard boil four eggs, separate whites from yolks after they are thoroughly cooled. Chop separate whites and yolks, add a pinch of salt to each, being careful not to mix or mash them. Arrange a lettuce leaf on each plate and in the center put a heaping tablespoon of cabbage salad, then a spoonful of the chopped whites, then the smaller spoonful of the yolks on top, cone shape. Sprinkle just a dash of cayenne pepper over all. This will serve six people and is very pretty.

Chocolate Cream.—Two cups scalded milk, five tablespoons cornstarch, one cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-third cup cold milk, 12 squares bitter chocolate, three tablespoons hot water, whites of three eggs, one teaspoon vanilla; mix cornstarch, sugar and salt; dilute with cold milk; add to scalded milk and cook over hot water ten minutes, stirring constantly until thickened; melt chocolate, add hot water, stir until smooth, and add to cooked mixture; add whites of eggs beaten stiff and vanilla. Mold and chill and serve with cream.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette

A LITTLE CHAFF EACH DAY
"At our house we are afraid," writes a minister's better half, "that the usuals served up in our favorite newspaper. Now we go for days and days at a time without a smile. We trust this is only a temporary indisposition with a dash of humor."

The indisposition is serious. A lady complained to the editors when we intimated, in our droll fashion, that she probably ate too much. We meant it, all fact folks do just that, in our opinion. But you know, when a doctor tries to laugh with patients some of them suspect he is laughing at them, and that will never do. It is the same with readers. If we sprinkle in a handful of good news and then, somebody is sure to get most of it in his eye and go and tell the editors on us. And the editors, poor fellows, have to please everybody.

But you are right. A little chaff every day is sorely needed by the great American people. Who was the philosopher who said: Keep the head cool and the bowels open—or something like that. There was wisdom in it, anyway. But how are you to do it?

Not by pills. Not by internal baths, so-called. Not by harsh, unnatural cathartics. But by diet, exercise and habit.

A little chaff every day. Or, in plainer words, eat bran. Back to the whole wheat flour of our ancestors. What? You don't like whole wheat bread? Then eat bran. Bran is health. Bran as gems. Bran mixed in with your favorite cereal. There are dozens of recipes which utilize bran and taste mighty good too. You can buy clean, sterilized bran in cans like those in which various cereal preparations are marketed. It seems like buying boxed atmosphere, but it is really health you are buying.

At least a tablespoonful of bran should be smuggled in three times a day, however you take it. It supplies what Nature intended for man's archaic food tabe. That is enough. We needn't speak of the value of mineral salts, vitamins, and other things that may add to the health value of bran. It saves pill bills, that's enough. Bran keeps the farmer's stock in condition. It might do as much for the ultimate consumer, if the great American pill hadn't such a grip on the people.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Strong Eyes Not So Strong.
Please give a good formula for an eye water to strengthen the eyes.

Answer—If you have some chronic trouble with the eyes it should be treated. If not, don't waste the eyes with any medicament whatever. Certainly no such method will improve the eyesight. The tears supply all the eye water normally necessary.

A girl in our factory had her fingers crushed in a machine. The foreman poured a great drink of whiskey down her throat, and she presently became fully intoxicated. Is whiskey a good

SOX SLIPPING FAST; CUBS HOLDING PLACE

Williams Wins Cubs' Game With a Homer—Alleged Hitters for Sox Fall to Deliver.

Williams' home run and Yerkes' triple were among six hits. Chicago made off Adams in the ninth inning on Wednesday and helped to produce five runs, giving the Cubs another game from Pittsburgh, 6 to 3. Errors figured in Pittsburgh's first two runs, but after Lander had given the visitors an opening in the ninth, Prendergrast saved the locals. Otto Knabe played his first game with Pittsburgh and his fielding was a feature. A cold, hard wind interfered with the fielders.

They'd Better Win. Cleveland, O., April 27.—Cleveland defeated Chicago again on Wednesday, the score being 5 to 3. Scott had Cleveland blanked until the eighth. Then Howard, batting for Cleveland, walked. The next two Clevelanders were retired, but Speaker, Smith, Gandil and Turner singled, driving in three runs. Wolfgang replaced Scott and Wambagans greeted him with a single that scored Gandil and Turner. Chicago made two in the fourth on Felch's single, hit batsman, and Murphy's double and in the ninth on Leibold's single and steal and Collins' single. Speaker, Felch and Terry starred in the field.

KANSAS CITY BALL CLUBS HAVE "SOME" TALL HEAVERS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Emporia, Kan., April 27.—The baseball teams of the Kansas State Normal and the College of Emporia here claim the distinction of having the tallest pitchers of any college team in the state. Of the six pitchers six foot tall, four are more than six feet tall, will weigh within a few pounds of 200. The state, Jones, of the College pitching staff, stands six feet, one inch, while Crosswhite, Shupe, and Cooper, of the Normal team, all are above the six foot mark.

BASEBALL IS POPULAR AT KANSAS UNIVERSITY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Lawrence, Kan., April 27.—Baseball has become such a popular sport at the University of Kansas that more than 500 men are competing for places on teams at the school, it was reported. Coach McCarthy has a squad of forty players working out with the varsity team and there is an equal number of the freshman squad, it was stated. Added to these players are twenty-five fraternity teams and with the sixteen teams that compose an organization known as the "Hash House" league. Every day that the weather is favorable some of these teams play, it was stated, and all available open spaces in Lawrence is being utilized by the teams, who play regulation games just for the fun of it.

"PANTS" ROWLAND GIVES TALK TO CHICAGO "KIDS".

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, April 27.—If George Washington was alive and could play baseball, he would be eligible for membership on the White Sox club. Manager Rowland, of the White Sox, admits he is not an orator, but says it gives him a great pleasure to address a bunch of "kids," and recently he brought the George Washington "stunt" before a gathering of boys, at a settlement. During the course of Rowland's "oration," he said that he believed that when they were old enough to vote, to smoke if they desired, and that a drink once in a while didn't hurt any one as long as they knew when to quit.

When his two hundred listeners, boys from 11 to 18 years, got wrapped up in his remarks, he "lilt from the shoulder out," and declared that he hated a conceited man or boy worse than a thief, that he always found the best ball players and the best men in any line of work were home loving fellows; that perseverance was all a boy needed to make good, and that he wouldn't have a liar on his ball club. When Rowland finished his remarks, the boys almost tore the house down. Rowland told them that he once was a poor kid and had a hard time working along and that was why "he was with them." He invited all the boys to be his guests at the game on May 6, when the Cleveland Indians and White Sox meet.

INTER-FRAT ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED IN MINNESOTA TO MANAGE FRAT SPORTS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Minneapolis, April 27.—The Interfraternity Athletic association has been organized at the University of Minnesota to take over the management of fraternity sports, which in the past have been allowed to exist in a lax manner because one assumed the responsibility. The sports coming under the control of the new body are baseball, basketball, swimming, relay races, tennis and handball. Walter Shelley is president of the new league.

BOXING MATCHES MAY BE HELD DURING THE SUMMER BY MINNEAPOLIS CLUBS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Minneapolis, April 27.—Minneapolis boxing enthusiasts may have the opportunity to witness fight bouts throughout the coming summer, if an experiment of officials of the Minneapolis Boxing club proves successful. It is planned to stage a fight May 12 and if the turnout of fans warrants it, boxing matches will be held here the year round instead of only during the winter season, as at present.

BASEBALL IS BIG ASSET TO CITY SAYS MANAGER.

St. Louis, April 27.—Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Americans, told members of the Rotary club here recently that baseball was more of an asset to a city than music.

"The Browns don't need any advertising," he declared, "they are going to advertise themselves by winning."

Willie Hoppe, holder of the three world's balt line titles, and Koji Yamada, the Japanese champion, several months has been traveling for Honolulu, where they are booked for a number of exhibitions. Hoppe expects to return in about four weeks, but Yamada will continue on to his native country.

RED SOX PITCHERS EXPECTED TO WIN PENNANT AGAIN FOR OLD BOSTON TOWN

The Red Sox twirlers who are expected to win another pennant for Boston this year are the salvation of the team. The staff is good for some years to come, with such men as Shore, Ruth and Leonard just approaching their best, to say nothing of Foster, and a youngster like Mays just coming on.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Fred Merkle, first baseman of the Giants, is the first ball player to come under the ban of the new amateur ruling of the United States Golf Association. Merkle recently competed in a tournament in Irmond, Fla., and returned the best score in the qualifying round. The refusal of the officials of the club to recognize Merkle as an amateur and the subsequent appeal to the national organization resulted in Merkle being barred from taking part in amateur events. Professionalism in baseball was given as the reason. Recently Willie Schaffer of baseball fame was reinstated as an amateur after declaring that he would no longer play professional baseball.

Dode Criss, famous as a swat-smith and pitcher, may have played his last game of ball. He is in a hospital with a badly broken ankle and there are fears it may not knit so that he can use it again. The accident came in an exhibition game with the New York Giants March 31. The last thing Dode did was to hit for three bases in the third inning. He tripped going into third and was carried off the field helpless. Two weeks before Criss had showed he could still pitch as well as hit by shutting out the New Yorkers.

Derrill Pratt, second baseman in the St. Louis American league team, has applied for a position of football coach at St. Louis university. Pratt formerly played on the football team of the University of Alabama. Last season he assisted in coaching the teams of Washington university and Christian Brothers college, St. Louis. A coach is to be selected by St. Louis university soon.

Charley White will get the first chance at Freddie Welsh's title. That has been agreed upon between the managers of these men. White will get the chance through his decision victory over Matt Wells at Kansas City. As soon as terms have been agreed upon between the Kansas City promoters and Welsh's managers, the chance to win the title through a knockout or a referee's decision will come to White. If, on such an occasion, White can't stop or win over Welsh, he ought to stop trying. Certainly, no more chances were ever afforded a hard-hitting contender.

The western division of the Amateur Athletic union, which includes St. Louis and adjacent territory, is trying to build up the membership of the 1,000 mark. The metropolitan district, embracing New York City and vicinity, has 6,000 athletes enrolled; the middle Atlantic section, including Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, has 3,000 members; New England, 2,300; central, 1,500; Pacific coast, 1,300; and South Atlantic, 1,000.

Young Jack O'Brien, brother of Jack O'Brien, the well-known middleweight pugilist of Philadelphia has developed into the 158-pound class. His brother is managing him. A few years ago Young Jack was a bantam.

has declined to report unless he gets a boost in salary. The other player of the four is Pitcher Cuck Henley, who has no objections to Wichita.

Frank Chance of the Los Angeles club has been in baseball a long while, but he finds there are regulations he was not aware of. For instance he had a pitcher named Graham. It developed this player already belonged to Joseph. Then he sought to turn Outfielder Charley Jackson over to Peoria, only to discover that since Jackson had been drafted from Bloomington that club must be given the right of refusal.

Acre Corn Contest For Boys

To the Acre Corn Contest Boys:

Now is the time to begin operations for the contest, unless, indeed, you have already begun by plowing your ground last fall or have already plowed this spring. As it is not required that you actually do your own plowing, perhaps some of you are trying to decide whether you will plant your acre on land plowed last fall or on land that is to be plowed this spring. On this the Purdue University bulletin on "How to Grow More and Better Corn" says: "The best time to plow for corn will depend upon the local conditions as to the character of the soil, lay of the land, climate and previous crop. In localities where there is much winter rain, or the land is hilly or inclined to puddle, fall plowing is not advisable, although an exception may be made of tough sod. On reasonably level lands that will not wash, the question of whether to plow in the fall or spring is largely one of convenience, as no definite effect upon corn yields has been observed. Grass lands, however, may be profitably plowed in the fall, as this helps to kill injurious insects, unless it is desired to apply manure during the winter. In the northern counties of the state where there is much freezing and little winter rain fall plowing will be more beneficial and especially if it will hasten drying and planting in the spring. In fall plowing the furrows should be well set up and the land left as rough as possible for the frost to act upon it. "Where corn follows clover, as should usually be the case, and especially where manure is applied during the winter, the plowing should be done in the spring and then as soon as the soil is dry enough. The furrow slice should never be thrown down flat and a jointer should be used, especially for sod. If manure is to be turned under a drag chain should be used to get it well covered. The United States Bulletin 414 on Corn Cultivation says: "Fall plowing can not be recommended for all soils and localities, but should be more generally practiced than at present. If a clover crop or sod is turned under in the autumn, decomposition will increase the amount of plant food available for the crop next summer. This is true to some extent even though sod is not turned under, inasmuch as the simple loosening of the soil admits atmospheric oxygen upon vegetable or mineral matter. Fall and winter plowing is one of the best methods of combating grubworms, cutworms and corn root worms which are often destructive to corn. Because the surface of ground plowed in the fall is drier at planting time in the spring than that of ground not so treated, it does not necessarily follow that there is less moisture in the fall-plowed land. The fall plowing has enabled the rainfall better to penetrate the subsoil, thus relieving the surface of its excess of moisture but at the same time has made a drier surface than fields which remain unplowed until spring. In comparative tests of fall and spring plowing, preceding a dry summer, the fall plowed fields have generally yielded better."

So the weight of the evidence seems to be in favor of fall plowed land, especially should the season be a dry one. But no one knows what the season is to be and the boys who must select the spring plowed land may do quite as well as others.

The ground is to be plowed this spring plow it as early as the conditions will permit. If clay soil it is a grave mistake to plow when too wet, for the plow on stubble land or even clover sod.

"This will more thoroughly pulverize the furrow slice and mix some soil matter before it is covered, thus preventing any tendency to cut off the capillary rise of moisture." There is much difference of opinion as to the depth to plow. This depends much upon the character of the soil. Corn should have an opportunity to send its roots down deep for food and moisture, but it has many roots near the surface, so in shallow soil it is unwise to plow so deeply that the subsoil is brought to the surface, because it does not contain the plant foods in so easy a form for the plants to use as does the top soil. It is also lacking in decayed vegetable matter so useful for plant food. The difference between subsoil and topsoil is shown by the color, that of the former being lighter in color than the latter, which is rendered dark by the decayed organic matter.

This organic matter we are told is that which when mixed with the soil helps to dissolve the minerals in the little soil particles so the plant roots can absorb them. The depth of plowing must be regulated somewhat by the depth at which the land has previously been plowed, unless there is a deep rich soil, when deep plowing is best.

The U. S. Bulletin 414 says: "The plowing should not be at the same depth from year to year, as by such practice the soil is not mixed well and a hard surface is left at the bottom of the furrows where the horses walk and the plows drag. A little subsoil turned to the surface occasionally allows the elements to act upon it, liberating plant food, and as it becomes mingled with the surface soil and vegetable growth the soil depth will be increased."

Many advise plowing a little deeper each year for several years and then for one season plow at about half the depth of the deepest plowing. The plowing should be well done. The land should all be loosened and no large air spaces be left. There should be plenty of power used and large plows.

Spring plowed land should be harrowed the same day it is plowed. This is contrary to custom among many farmers. It is nevertheless important and the corn contest boys should follow these directions. If the land was plowed last fall it should be disked.

Historic Knowledge.

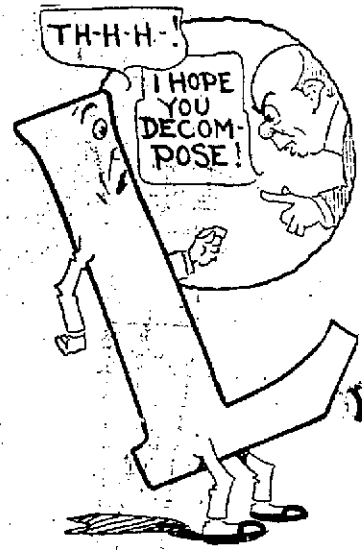

Imagine the civilized world waking up tomorrow morning with every trace of historic knowledge and all memory of what has occurred in the past wiped completely out of mind and placed beyond recovery. The world would fall into confusion. There would be no guidance for statesmen or for scientists.

Every new problem would have to be solved by the long and painful method of trial and error. There would be no stimulus of pride, emulation and confidence springing from the recollection of man's past achievements. A nation without history would be like a man without memory.—New York Journal.

What Goal Have You Set For Your Children

Those of us with proper appreciation for the future of our children do everything possible to fully equip them for successful careers. There are so many instances of regretful lives because of lack of opportunities in childhood—opportunities which the parents might well have afforded. Social standing contributes materially to individual success, and one of the best means to this end is accomplishment of one kind or another. There are, of course, accomplishments in variety, but it is generally accepted that music is of the finest and at the same time most necessary. A musical education distinguishes the well-trained man or woman, but that which is looked upon nowadays as an essential of culture and the most popular musical attainment, is piano playing.

You Owe Your Children the Duty

A musical education will not involve a great deal of cost in view of the splendid piano values available in Lyon & Healy products.
